How to make money on internet - are All the Article Sites Copying Each Other by INA Simmons

Article published on July 12th 2012 | Book Marketing

More than the years, I've posted articles at my favorite on-line write-up website, and although I typically get invited for the other people, I stick with what I know, and think loyalty is important. It is also a trust aspect, as more than the last five-years I've observed post directory websites come and go, some commence out with so much promise, and hype, you think wow, this could be large, only to fall into obscurity some 6-months later. Okay so, I'd like to talk about the issue with imitation, innovation, and outright copying in terms of write-up categories in such venues.

You see, I've been amazed that almost each directory internet site has similar categories. Did somebody merely write down a list of categories when, and after that every person utilized exactly the same list? Where will be the mental brilliance in that, apart from the first individual that made the list? See that point. Also, I've noted that most categories on such internet sites are typical, and often fitting for the Facebook crowd, but actually do a disservice for the a lot more intellectually endowed person who'd prefer to understand about cool stuff. Things like engineering, math, science, and future tech as an example.

Some say that the internet is dummying us down, but whose fault is the fact that? Are there just countless shallow individuals out there that all they want could be the same-old typical, or if offered a choice may more migrate to far more mental stimulation. Effectively, I'd prefer to think the latter and even in the event the jury is out, shouldn't the article directory internet sites, the excellent ones, lead the way?

Okay so, my suggestion is the fact that the leading on the web websites of this nature, really should add a lot more intellectually legitimate categories to attract higher finish writers, not just stupid stuff for the Facebook crowd, at the same time as readers who desire to be challenged, and take pleasure in the web as their personal tool for any lifetime of studying. I would recommend the following new categories to be regarded as;

History

Artificial Intelligence

NanoTechnology

Robotics

Six Sigma

Neuro Science

Physics

Private-Space Flight

Transportation Industry

Manufacturing Industry

Virtual Reality

Water-Oceanography

Why not? It tends to make sense to take this venue to a greater level. Currently, as a prolific on-line article writer who likes to believe, I have noted at instances, that I often force my articles in to the incorrect categories, since the selections or the computerized program doesn't serve the demands in the World wide web viewers of a higher-order of IQ. Is this a complaint you ask? Oh heavens no, what I'd like to see is really a strategy to get the mindless masses on the internet to start thinking once more. So, please think about all this and believe on it.
