Article published on June 29th 2012 | Book Marketing

There are a variety of golf rangefinders available in 2012, so it is a very difficult choice to figure out what is the best golf rangefinder. In this article you will learn to choose the right golf rangefinder and the one that also fits your budget.

As a rule, the person's budget is usually the biggest component in their buying choice; most people realize that higher quality comes with a higher price. If people want to pay less than $100, the Izzo Swami 3000 GPS golf range finder is a good option. Among similar units, Izzo Swami 3000 is the most cheapest one This GPS comes pre-loaded with more than 19,000 golf courses and has a one-time cost of under $90.

The Bushnell Neo+ is the best golf rangefinder within the $100 price range. For those looking for courses in the US and Canada, the Bushnell Neo + is pre-loaded with both and comes with an optiona download for international courses. It's automatic course recognition, high quality screen recognition, large text menus, and auto-hole advance set it apart from the competition.

People ready to spend 200 dollars at the max, a more precise rangefinder Ideal for people whose hands are steady. A laser rangefinder is something that one could try out. In this price range you will find the Bushnell Medalist to be the most accurate and reliable. Even at long distances, the unit can acurately measure the distance to any visible target.

The challenge is picking a range finder between $200 and $300 as there are many models with similar features. Its accuracy and reliability make the Callaway LR550 the favorite of many. 6x magnification is built into the unit. one of the best laser rangefinder By setting the mode to scan it can assist in hitting the target acurately. Also the Leupold GX-1 is available that includes 6x magnification and customers rate it well. The price is a little steeper than the others. The Golf Buddy World is ideally suited to people whose hands are not very steady. Equipped with many features and started with more than 35,000 golf courses already installed.

The Bushnell Hybrid is the best golf rangefinder and this is a mix of the Bushnell Neo+ and Bushnell v2. Prepared for any situation, the Busnell Hybrid system includes both GPS and laser tracking. The laser has the ability to show correct yardage for any object in view and the GPS works well to show the distance for the front, middle and end of the green. Also different hazards and lay up positions are available. Now it is readily available with preloaded 16,000 golf courses. The Bushnell hybrid has a unique position in the rangefinder market as there are no other models available with the same features to attract consumers.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/book-marketing-articles/which-is-the-greatest-device-to-find-the-exact-range-in-golf.htm - Article Side

PHYLIS Gates - About Author:
If you are in the market for a new golf rangefinder than make sure to check out our a best range finders. It will show you which golf rangefinder rates the highest and is our top recommendation.

Article Keywords:

golfing, sports, recreation

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!