Man-Caves: the secret to happiness by Simon Dcruz

Men may be fighting a losing battle against growing old, but some do put up a strong resistance against growing up. They pick up niche hobbies; follow trends that were prevalent when they were younger and pretty much do everything to hold on to the child within themselves. A recent development is fast becoming the rage in Bahrain. Itâ€™s called the man-cave and it is being touted as the next best thing that a man must have, to get in touch with the child inside him.

The man-space or mantuary as it is otherwise known is touted as a male-only zone. It is usually used by men who, having descended into the matrimonial bond, crave to go back to some of their bachelorhood habits again. Unlike popular misconceptions, most people use the man-cave for constructive or recreational purposes. They use this space to indulge in various hobbies or to simply have an exclusive place to hang out with like-minded friends.

The usual location for man-caves is right inside the family home. It could be built in an unused bed-room or a more spacious area, like a basement or an unoccupied garage space. This however, leads to certain disadvantages. There could be a conflict with the other house members or the household storage needs may get affected. Though many do go on to build their man-caves on their home property itself, there are some rather interesting alternatives out there for those looking to do things differently.

Having oneâ€™s man-cave off their residential premises, frees them from the restrictions that may be put in place. The builder is now free to let all the creative juices out and give wings to his imagination. High end, sports facilities, state-of-the-art audio-video capabilities, fully equipped beverage stations are just some of the examples of the potential of a man-cave thatâ€™s located off-home premises. To this end, the storage industry in Bahrain is a prime avenue to explore, for those looking for personal storage or self- storage facilities.

Man-caves can also be used for sports equipment storage, vehicle storage (car storage, bike storage, boat storage, jet-ski storage, quad-bike storage, etc.). Storage Bahrain is one of the leading storage service providers in Bahrain. Their customized storage solutions are ideal for those looking to build their dream man-cave without any restrictions from their families. Thus, such facilities offer many advantages over the traditional build location for man-caves. Here, one can find a host of services that would be well suited to niche requirements, such as those discussed earlier. Heat-sensing CCTV cameras, access control logs, round-the-clock manning of the premises by trained personnel are some of the high-security measures that are deployed on the storage facility premises. One can even avail of a climate controlled storage unit, to ensure that they stay comfortable, no matter how high the mercury rises on the outside. This way, a man-cave can be truly transformed as an oasis for when the good times roll.
