Johannesburg or Joâ€™burg - the boldly intense city of gold, built on imaginings of great prosperity that is impenetrable with townships, skyscrapers, socialites and leafy suburbs. The conurbation in blessed with super-sized shopping mall, a thrilling nightlife and an affluent art scene. Not many visitors in reality put Johannesburg on their travel list, but nearly everyone ends up spending a day or two, as it is the chief air traffic hub of southern Africa - in fact, of Africa. Johannesburg has had very dreadful press. Sure - it's nowhere near to Utopia, and it's a metropolitan where you need to keep your intellect wide awake, but it's not the criminalized war zone that's been portrayed throughout the years. It's a true place with vibes. If you enjoy city splendors, you will surely love Johannesburg.

Climate

The city is a combination of fluctuating temperatures. The Benguela currents stir up a moderate temperature on the west coast with loads of precipitation throughout summers. One needs to be alert in knowing that the southern hemisphere is in hostility to the weather of the northern hemisphere. Book your Cheap Flights to Johannesburg to capture the cool climate while touring the city during November to February.

Transportation

Commuting has no issues when you opt for Flights to Johannesburg. You may hop on board on one of the airport shuttles, which are accessible to reach most hotel destinations. The rest of the city is reachable by taxi, by bus, or on foot. The safest way to tour is by a cab or hiring your own car. The bus routes to all corners of the city are unproblematic, and the major station is the Park Station. Buying a ticket is economical and prices may vary according to zones.

Attractions

Johannesburg attracts tourists from all over the globe with one sole purpose -- to shop till they drop. Sandton has numerous stylish shopping malls, even though shoppers asking "where-did-you-get-that" designer items should straightaway head to Rosebank. Vacationers boarding Cheap Flights to Johannesburg can unearth a daily African Craft Market selling creative artwork to the sound of bongo drums. Haggle for valuable Indian fabrics in the crammed-full Fordsburg; and antiques and retro items at Milpark's relaxed shopping compound.

Cuisine

The fashionable and health-conscious adore the food fusion served in Parkhurst, while those equipped to untie their belts, stick to the 500-seater Carnivore steakhouse in Muldersdrift. Genuine African food, such as the black mogodu and wild African spinach stew, is a smash-hit at the renowned Gramadoelas; the parallel Moyo restaurants offer fish burgers and North African stews. Try and pick a tested restaurant in Sandton's Nelson Mandela Square to merge dinner with dance or musicals. Hurry and pack up to fly with Johannesburg Flights to pamper your taste buds.

Nightlife

If you feel quite energetic visit a bar in downtown Melville during the evenings or late night, where the real action trickles out. Nearby Milpark it is more tranquilized but similarly gregarious. Comprehensive musicals, operas and dance are the specialty of the city in and around the Civic Theatre but Mary Fitzgerald Square also stages praiseworthy performances. Kippies, previously a jazz club famed and named after the South African jazz artist Kippie Moeketsi, has been resurrected as a heritage and cultural space. Cheap Johannesburg Flights help you to take peek into the magnetizing and valiant nightlife.
