Article published on February 23rd 2012 | Business

Oil change is an important maintenance measure that people need to do to keep their car running. Many car owners think the only time a car needs an oil change is when car problems start to become apparent and severe. The idea of getting an oil change on time means the car is saved from a plethora of serious damage that would be more costly to address.

Oil change must generally be done for every 7,500 miles that the car has run. However, this mileage depends on how often the car is driven. If you use your car on a daily basis, then oil change must be done for every 6,000 miles. In fact, it doesnâ€™t hurt to have your car checked once in a while even when your vehicle has only driven 5,000 miles.

A common sign that tells you that your oil needs to be changed is when engine oil starts to get dirty. Dirty oil is characterized by a dark color and foggy appearance, in contrast with new oil which is translucent and clear. Car dealers can check this by using a dipstick and see if the oil reaches the designated line. If it doesnâ€™t reach the normal level, the car might experience problems like overheating or locking up.

Newer car models have an oil light signal that indicates that the carâ€™s lubricant levels or fluid is excessively dirty. However, car owners need not wait for the light to flash just to get their oil changed. There is a competent Ford dealer Indianapolis residents trust who can take care of your carâ€™s oil change needs.

To reiterate, oil change is probably the most important thing an owner must do to keep his car running efficiently. Not getting an oil change is like being in a neglectful relationshipâ€“being unmindful of your significant otherâ€™s concerns and not making an effort to fix it can make things worse for both of you. Consequently, getting your car checked for an oil change by a trusted Ford dealer Indianapolis IN has can keep your car running optimally.

By educating yourself about the signs of your carâ€™s needs for oil change, you can be more aware of the potential problems that it may faceâ€“and avoid it. The best thing to do then is to be on top of the game and have your car checked by Ford dealers Indianapolis offers even before your car presents the aforementioned warning signs. Your car then can extend its engine life and you can enjoy the perks of driving a reliable vehicle.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/knowing-the-telltale-signs-of-your-car-needing-an-oil-change.htm - Article Side

Erwin Calverley - About Author:
For more details, search a Ford dealer Indianapolis, a Ford dealer Indianapolis IN and a Ford dealers Indianapolis in Google for related information.

Article Keywords:
Ford dealer Indianapolis, Ford dealer Indianapolis IN, Ford dealers Indianapolis

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!