Canon Ink Cartridges Hitting the Sales Target across the Worldwide Market by Richard Donna

Canon is one of the leading major inkjet printer manufacturers in the world, and Canon ink cartridges are naturally one of the best selling brands around too. The concept was originated as far back as the late 19th century. However, it was only in the early 1950s when the technology was actually developed, but it took almost many years before they became available as computer printers. Today, the brand is recognized as one of the first batch of producers manufacturing high quality printers, and ever since, its printer inks have been selling by millions across the world.

The Company continued to grow under the Premier Company Plan. As the world fast turning to the age of computers, Canon introduced to the world a series of product never before seen, among them a personal copying machine based on an all-in-one cartridge system, a laser printer, and a Bubble Jet inkjet printer. It also began promoting environmentally sound activities as toner cartridge recycling in addition to globalizing its development sites. The company still manufactures superior cameras, but today most of its manufactured goods include various types of office and computer equipment. And for their printer range, they also sell a lot of Canon ink cartridges.

The fact is that most inkjet printers work on a similar principle. There is however differences in the detail, but on the whole they deliver droplets of ink in a precise way, mixing proper color where necessary to produce photo-realistic images at a relatively lower cost. Since printer inks are consumable items, the inks runs out so often and needs to be replaced. It is very significant that a genuine replacement unit is used, or the users choose a compatible ink cartridge. If anyone uses a cartridge that is not designed for the printer it is used, there would be a lot of damage, thereby affecting the overall process. It is not likely that it would work well in any case, but if it does unexpectedly, then you run the risk of causing rigorous damage of voiding any manufacturerâ€™s warranty that you may have on the printer itself. Thus, it is advisable to use only brand name cartridge for the printer of that brand. The mixing and matching of the two will provide superb result.

The OEM or original equipment manufacturer cartridges are delicate and should always be handled with care as it can be easy to get spoiled when trying to fit them into the printer. If anything happens, the particular unit will lose its functionality and can no longer be used.
