Article published on February 24th 2012 | Business

The Australia is known for its huge and big farms and contrastingly for its less population. The farmers in Australia have big farms and lots of cattle. So to take care of farms and cattle, the Australian cattle dog came in limelight.

This dog has matchless ability in speed and courage. This breed is not natural made but was made seeing the problems were being faced by Australian cattle industry. There were number of farmers in Australia who needed a dog to herds their cattle and could work all day and night. The Australian cattle dog is known by many names put up because of the place it belongs, and from the breeds it was made. As the names by which it is known are: Blue Heeler, Red Heeler, and Queensland Heller.

The dog has many features which make the extraordinary one. This breed was made, keeping in mind the necessity of cattle industry. The industry needed a dog having the quality of intelligence, loyalty and pliability.

It works like a machine which never feels fatigue. In other words, the Australian cattle dog works tirelessly throughout the day without thinking of rest. More importantly, it is easy to be trained. It doesnâ€™t demand an extensive training as the dog of police squadâ€™s demand. As you want the machine to work tirelessly, you have to oil it frequently. The same case is with the Australian cattle dog, you have to be disciplined to exercise this dog regularly.

The manner in which it herds cattle is really marvelous. It is gifted with powerful jaws and strong bite. So, it must be train to use its jaws at appropriate time at early age. Australian cattle dogâ€™ size matters much in its ability to attack and protect both. It is medium in size with height well-nigh of 20 inches. Its broad skull makes its bite more powerful.

The skin of Australian cattle dog has coat which is in two layers. It protects it from adverse temperature in Australia. In other words, it is weather resistant. At the time of taking birth it has white coat but with the passage of time it turn into color having patches appearance.

Although Australian cattle dog usually doesnâ€™t prone to any disease, but some minor injuries, which can be to anyone, may cause illness.This dog has all the abilities which is impossible to be find in a single man.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/the-benefits-of-keeping-an-australian-cattle-dog.htm - Article Side

Petyourd - About Author:
More for details :

a Australian cattle dog | a American staffordshire terrier

Article Keywords:
Australian cattle dog , American staffordshire terrier

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!