The Concept of Wholesale Sandals Rate by James Blee

Article published on May 31st 2012 | Business

The origin of sandals dates back to around 4,000,000 years ago. Yes, it was the period of ice age when sandals were first used by people. During those days, this type of footwear was prepared from animal skins and tree leaves. Time passed and new eras came. However, the popularity of sandals remained intact. Even among present generation, there is a huge demand for these footwear items. Obviously, they are not prepared from animal skin or tree leaves these days, but still they enjoy popularity among people. Be it younger or old generation, these footwear items are equally popular. These days, different materials are used for preparing these footwear items like leather, plastic, rubber, woolen fabric, etc. However, sole is always made from anti-slippery rubber.

wholesale sandals are nothing but those variant of sandals that are sold at discounted price. Beach sandals, flip-flops, monsoon chappals, etc. are common ones that are sold at discounted price all throughout the year. However, purchasing these items from wholesaler can be problematic at times. If the client is willing to purchase these items in bulk quantity, then only they can availed at wholesale rates. Otherwise, no discounts will be given.

However, there are certain stores where sandals at wholesale rates are available. But, the customers need not have to purchase bulk quantity to avail such low rates. In fact, it will be better to say that such stores offer quality discount on these items. There is a certain difference between discount price and wholesale rates.  Discount is a small reduction in the market price while wholesale rate is the actual cost price of items without any profit margin or tax inclusion.

There are some online stores where sandals at wholesale rates can be availed. These stores do not compromise on quality, but to increase on their sales, they give away items at such reduced rates. Often, old stocked items are also given away at such wholesale rates.
