Investment and the factors associated with it are the buzzwords nowadays. Wherever you go, you will find the word â€œinvestmentâ€• be it in stocks & shares, real estate or whatever. The basic idea behin investments is that when you invest or put your money in some sort of venture say stocks, then you do that with the hope that after a specific period you will get back twice, thrice or more of that amount. This very principle behind investment makes people run the risk of losing a sizeable portion of their hard earned money. In other words, as a general rule investing is a risky business.

Nevertheless, some options are still there that can minimize the corresponding risks of an investment. A good example in this context is alternative investment market. In alternative investment market, the good thing is that there are far less formalities and regulations that you need to follow. Thatâ€™s why more and more people are plunging into this field. Also, as an investor you donâ€ have any restrictions to buy a certain number of shares. Moreover, you can easily avail substantial tax benefits in this regard. The best example is investing in wine. Also, investing in gold can be a better option.

Again, there is one more lucrative option called bmv deals which is related to property investment. Here, BMV stands for below market value properties. Usually, the investors who are into BMV deals are well aware of the fundamentals and since the BMV property has a low market value price so the investors are greedy to take hold of the chance. Suppose you are a buyer and if you sell the property then you will earn huge profits sooner or later. But if you ignore this, you may find yourself in trouble.

However, there is one catch in case of BMV properties and that is, you will gain richly only when the market is prosperous.
