It can be difficult to narrow down the very best yachting destinations in the world. There are so many beautiful tropical places that you can visit that stretch from the Americas all the way to the Far East that narrowing down a list is nearly impossible. However, if you have recently purchased a yacht or have been planning on renting one out for your next family vacation, then here are some of the top places John Rosatti suggests you consider visiting in order to have a wonderful yachting experience.

Abacos, Bahamas. The Caribbean is one of the best places to go when you own a yacht and Abacos is one beautiful piece of paradise that should not be missed, notes John Rosatti. The Bahamas can offer you some amazing fishing opportunities, coral reefs to explore, beach bars, fine dining experiences and historical museums that allow you to take in a bit of culture while you are there. You can enjoy a relaxing sunset while visiting one of the small villages in the area and enjoy some of the most photographic opportunities during your stay.

Boracay Island in Aklan, Philippines is a tropical island that is famous for its white gleaming shells scattered all over the beaches. This island is located in Southeast Asia in what is known as the pearl of the Orient. There are several quaint island villages in the Philippines that feature beautiful coral lagoons for you to explore as well as other exciting opportunities like windsurfing, kite boarding and a beautiful world class golf course. There are also many cultural places in the area for you to visit such as the Caves of the Flying Dogs of Yapak as well as the intriguing Bat Caves.

Athens, Greece is a popular yachting destination for many people as you get to sail to Athens via the Saronic Gulf which features many beautiful beach destinations and historical must see sites. The Mediterranean has a cruising ground available for you to explore while you are staying in this historic destination. The towns in Athens are full of historic castles and fortresses as well as vibrant cosmopolitan areas that are full of cafes, taverns, and exciting night clubs. You can also take your yacht out into the Aegean Sea and enjoy a spirited open water experience while you are there.

Baja, Mexico is one of the top yachting destinations in North America that is well known for its soaring red cliffs and beautiful secluded anchorages, explains John Rosatti. You will get to see some of the rarest species of animals while you are there and lounge around on some of the most beautiful beaches in the world. The gorgeous city of La Paz in Baja has a scenic boardwalk area that has historical hotels and many local shops and bars for you to visit and enjoy during your stay. You can also enjoy going snorkeling and scuba diving in the area of Los Islotes where you may also have the unique opportunity to go swimming with friendly, golden-colored sea lions.
