Wholesaledeals Scam-Still No Proof and Life Goes on at Wholesaledeals by Brad Smith

Article published on December 12th 2011 | Business

Wholesaledeals scam reports attract immediate attention on the web because of many reasons. Established members are curious to know why an effective and high-performance site is being called a scam site despite their experience to the contrary.

New retailers browsing the web for suppliers, dropshippers and trade directory services are curious to know more about a wholesaledeals scam. There is confusion in the minds of inexperienced and amateur retailers when they hear the scam rumors about wholesaledeals because the opinion of their seniors and fellow traders about wholesaledeals is diametrically different.

So, what are the real facts? Is the wholesaledeals scam for real, or are they just rumors posted by some mischievous elements with ulterior motives?

â€¢ Verified Suppliers Take Away Most of Your Hassles

If you are looking for reliable and legitimate wholesalers and dropshippers, then wholesaledeals is your destination because the entire database, which is arguably the largest and most extensive on the web, is 100 percent genuine. The suppliers are individually verified and cleared for listing only after they meet stringent qualifying measures. Trade buyers are assured of connecting only with the best suppliers in business, saving them valuable time and effort.

Registered members vouch for the effectiveness of the portal in delivering on their promises. You can use one of the three easy and affordable subscription plans to get your e-commerce store up and going. The portal is focused on helping small and medium retailers and has full-time researchers who browse through the database in search of the best offers from qualified suppliers. The deals are for low-priced products and available in small wholesale lots unlike the offerings from other trade directory services. It is evident that reports of wholesaledeals scams are completely phony and fabricated.

The administrators make sure that the deals are always based on small minimum orders and of products that are not heavily priced. This helps retailers expand their offerings to their customers through an extended product list and cut down on the risks involved in dealing with just a couple of products. Also, they donâ€™t have to invest heavily to enjoy profits. They can make money even with low, minimal investments.

â€¢ Easy Browsing Despite the Huge Size

There is no wholesaledeals scam here as some people would like retailers to believe. The suppliers database has names of trusted and active wholesale suppliers and dropshippers with a vast range of products neatly categorized for easy access. The size of the site is undoubtedly huge, but every effort has been taken to make the browsing experience effortless and fast. You can find the suppliers and products that you are looking for in a matter of minutes, even if you are visiting the website for the first time.

It is now possible to get instant and easy access to more than 90,000 profitable and legitimate wholesale and dropship suppliers of products of the best quality and that too at up to 95 percent off. Wholesaledeals is indeed your fast track to profitable sources of product information. You donâ€™t have to risk trying potential wholesalers and dropshippers because the information provided here is 100 percent genuine and vetted.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/business-articles/wholesaledeals-scam-still-no-proof-and-life-goes-on-at-wholesaledeals.htm - Article Side

Brad Smith - About Author:
Rumors about a a wholesaledeals scam are floating on the web, but real traders know this is just a lot of hot air and nothing else. Members refuse to get bogged down by the a wholesaledeals scams blather because they know the real value of the portal to their businesses.

Article Keywords:
wholesaledeals scam, wholesaledeals scams

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!