Think green before you place that order for booklet printing by Julia Bennet

Article published on January 10th 2012 | Advertising

Do you know that the paper and paper pulp industry is the third largest polluter in the world? Every year we cut thousands of trees to make paper, paper that is distributed across the world so that people can use them as stationery. It was once thought that the advent of computers will reduce the usage of paper. On the contrary, computers have made businesses so large and complex that the use of paper has increased. In the midst of all this are companies that are now using recycled paper. So when you plan your next booklet printing, look for those Toronto printing services that fall into this category.

Green printing is beneficial in three ways â€“ a. it helps us preserve the trees, b. it helps us reduce manufacturing pollution and c. it helps us reduce our waste landfill. While some printing companies give two hoots to green printing, there are many that have awoken to the concept of green printing and have taken it up on a very serious note. As a responsible citizen of the world, it is also your responsibility to encourage the kind of work these Toronto printing services have been doing and give them the thumbs up to be greener.

All the Toronto printing services actively engaged in green printing have their presence on the web. So, for any of your printing needs â€“ booklet printing, brochure printing or calendar printing or any other form of printing, you can use these online printer services. And since they are present online it doesnâ€™t matter where they are located as long as they are based in Canada. So, instead of trying to find a Brampton printer or a Mississauga printer, you can search for Toronto printing services online and they will be able to do the perfect job for you.

Let us take the example of booklet printing. When you visit the website of one of the green Toronto printing services, they make it very easy for you to get your booklet printed. They ask you for some relevant inputs where you need to choose the options from a drop down menu. Once you have done this part of the job they give you a real time quote. You will find that the quote is going to be within your budget. Now you will need to upload the image for the booklet and pay the printer online. If you want to check the work before it is sent for printing you can ask for a soft copy for proofreading too. When you are happy with the production, give them the green signal and they will print and deliver your booklets.

There are many GTA printers in and around Toronto but green is the sign you should follow before you give them the job of your businessâ€™ booklet printing. Find green Toronto printing services to get the work done for you and you will find that excellent quality work has been done at an amazing price. Go green with printing today and help the world.
