Communication is key to keeping people in their Facebook fan page. The creation of the initial fan base is just the first step. The key to keep coming back to the Facebook fan page and the formation of a community is to have clear communication. The web is full of fan pages on Facebook abandoned, without any daily visitors, most of which started on the right track, but soon fell apart due to lack of communication.

Load a bunch of links

There are several things you can do to continually interact with fans and generally raise the fan page on Facebook. For example, you should always carry links. It is important to ensure that these links are not all related to sales, but can only usually be connected to your business niche. If the fans feel like they're constantly on the receiving end of a sales pitch, quickly get bored and leave your site in droves. Also a great thing about the non-selling links is that they are a good catalyst for discussion.

Initiate discussions

Discussions of departure should be a priority. Always try to get their fans to share their views in their Facebook fan page and absolutely uncensored. You should not worry about negative comments on your fan page. It is much more important to their fans who feel they have absolute freedom to share their opinions and that your page is a good place for discussion. You want to instill a sense of community on your page, ideally, should be a place to keep coming to share ideas with others about your business and other related topics.

Encourage participation

Try to encourage all fans to participate in discussions. You can participate in contests and fun challenges to keep their interest, an easy way to get the fans on Facebook. If you want more fans in their fan page on Facebook, you should always treat their fans as adults. Respond to each comment and ask a personal, one on one form. Not to be condescending, or worse, an insult. Do not spam. Remember, people do not want to feel as if sold a. If the brand of your page properly and make sure that your landing page has enough content, their interaction with their fans, need not be a selling point.

Updating a lot and be consistent

As always, the most important aspect of any social media platform is sure to update a lot and constantly updated. Also take advantage of the interconnected nature of social media today. You can communicate with their fans by linking Twitter, YouTube and blogs other than their Facebook fan page.

One of the most pressing problems of the brand is how to get Facebook Facebook fans, but the real problem is how to stop once you get them. His fans may be a way to get more like Facebook, with almost no interaction that once you have an established community. If you can make your Facebook fan page an interesting place for discussion and interactive content, then you have the "how Facebook fans" problem practically solved in the long term.
