When you are searching for your ideal prom dresses for the approaching prom 2012, facing numbers of various styles, do you know how to pick up a flattering one? Several factors like your body shape, skin tone, personality as well as your favorite should be taken into consideration. In a certain way, your figure has the important effect on the silhouette of your outfit, while whether the color will look great on you depends on your complexion. Maybe you have decided the style that is suitable for you; however, it doesnâ€™t mean that your task has been finished.

It is easy to find that the same design like A-line comes in a variety of styles varying from the neckline, waistline, the length as well as the embellishments. For example, the A-line can feature one shoulder, halter neckline, or strapless sweetheart neckline. Do you know how to choose? Generally speaking, some girl will select on according to the favorite. As a matter of fact, it is a knowledge to choose the fitted neckline. The strapless sweetheart neckline is sexy and stylish, but it looks great on women with charming shoulders and perfect bust line. The halter neckline is unique and seductive and it is the best choice for the girls with wide shoulders. The one shoulder is elegant and seductive and it is really appealing to lots of females.

One shoulder prom dress, just as the name suggests, features asymmetrical strap. With the development of the fashion, the single strap can be embellished with floral accents, sequins, beadworks or bow, adding to the beauty. The special neckline can flatter women with any age. Of course, the popular silhouettes with single strap are A-line and sheath. Any style is easy to become a favorite in the closet for any woman. Here are several perfect designs with asymmetrical strap.

Floor-length

The popular long style with single strap features A-line silhouette with some dramatic embellishments on the natural waistline. It is just for the women with pear shaped figures to highlight their slim waist line. On the one hand, the classical design is an excellent choice for the prom. On the other hand, it is an ideal for the formal evening, wedding parties or other special events.

Mermaid is really appealing to lots of females. It offers you a good chance to show off your hourglass figures. It creates a mermaid look, speaking of glamour. Of course, if you are not confident of your body shape, you had better stay away from it.

Short

The fabulous short prom gown with one shoulder features A-line with empire waist. For homecoming, it is wonderful, too. Due to the high waist line, it can work well for the girls with a bit fatter waist. Of course, it is worth considering for petite girls to create a much slimmer and higher look.
