Tips of How to Choose Cocktail Dresses for Petite Girls by Cristina

Article published on January 16th 2012 | Clothing

It is known to all that when you are choosing your desired cocktail dress, what you need to consider firstly is your body shape. If you are a petite girl, it is not difficult to find a stunning one that fits you well following the useful guides in this article.

Style

First of all, the classic little black dress is a perfect option. However, it doesnâ€™t mean that you donâ€™t have the right to experiment with other fabulous choices. Lots of dramatic embellishments are added to the design and it is a good idea for you to select the pattern with smaller prints and in solid colors. In order to create a taller look, stay away from the tea-length gown and go for the mini or knee-length style.

In addition, the design with empire waist is sure to look great on petite girls. On the one hand, the high waist line that hits right below the breast would make your height look elongated. On the other hand, it will show off your femininity, speaking of beauty. Opt for one that is made of flowing fabrics that would make your outfit more desirable and a lot more comfortable.

If you look forward to highlighting your perfect curves, the sheath cocktail dresses are your best options. The fitted cutting just hugs the body and makes your best features accentuated. Generally speaking, they are made of cotton, satin or taffeta and fall near the knees.

When it comes to the silhouette, the stunning A-line shouldnâ€™t be ignored. It is regarded as the most versatile style that can flatter most figures well. The design concentrates a lot on the hips and the bottom, rather than the waist. A-line is easy to become a favorite in the closet for any girl.

Tea length dresses are garments that fall anywhere between the bottom of a woman's knee and the bottom of her calf. The gown should be about three or four inches above her ankle. Tea length apparel fall somewhere between cocktail-length wear and full-length attire. They are also appropriate for picnics and dances; more and more tea length styles are showing up at the prom. To look your best in your tea-length attire, make sure you measure properly.

Accessories

If you expect to appear perfect, it is necessary to pick out some beautiful matching accessories without which any appeal is incomplete. Generally speaking, the fashion jewelry and accessories are quite crucial and it is not advisable to wear anything that is too sophisticated. Keep it as simple as possible.

Due to your height, there is no doubt that a pair of high heels that are two inches or taller is necessity. Of course, the premise is that they are comfortable to wear and dance.

At last, bear in mind that you donâ€™t need to be in pursuit of the fashion trend blindly for the charming look. It is must to make sure your favorite cheap cocktail dresses can fit your size, style, personality and comfort. Then be confident of your appearance, I believe that you will be the most outstanding star during the special occasion.
