Real review hub is an online portal where customers provide their own reviews regarding companies and company products, based on their own experiences. Hence future customers can get firsthand knowledge from the experiences of other customers. Customers who have already brought the product, used it thoroughly, understood its shortcomings; will present an insight into the products which cannot be found in general advertisements, demonstrations. Thus this â€˜word of mouthâ€™ technique is one of the major tools of product marketing. Here we bring before you company reviews, company ratings, employer reviews. In addition to that several types of product reviews and product service reviews such as automotive reviews, retail reviews, financial service reviews, pharmaceutical reviews, internet service reviews and fashion reviews. These reviews are authentic data from authentic customers unlike several online portals which give fake reviews.

Company reviews are very important in these aspects. Be it a manufacturing company, retail company or financial company; it may attract prospective employees or shun them. Before joining a particular company, one has to be thorough through these company reviews thus ensuring whether one will be able to continue working in the company for a considerable period of time. Company reviews are written by ex-employees or working employees. They may be positive or negative depending upon the mindset of the employees. So it is necessary to go through several reviews to get a complete picture instead of concentrating on a single review. Going through these reviews, one can get an idea about the working environment, benefits offered, business outlook. Prospective employees are sometimes dubious regarding the individual growth that may occur after joining a particular company. The company should have a decent salary structure and benefit scheme that should maximize the satisfaction levels of the employees. Work-life balance is also an important factor that needs to be ensured. Long working hours may cause family problems and reduce an individualâ€™s zeal to work. We also cannot forget general employee morale factor. It is important that a new employee can combine well in an existing team. Company reviews generally encompass all these factors together and ensure that prospective employees are quite sure about their new company. It simply doesnâ€™t end here; ratings are also provided on all these aspects. Prospective employees can compare different company ratings to choose the right company.

Besides company reviews we have also got company product reviews. Consider the leading computer manufacturer Hewlett-Packard bringing out the latest pavilion series laptop. Buyers should be looking into these reviews before acquiring the actual products. Automotive reviews deal with the passenger cars, transport vehicles, load transport vehicles. These reviews give more information about parameters such as fuel efficiency, safety, maximum speed attainable, braking torque. Whether a petrol car or a diesel car is a more suitable acquisition in the current market scenario can be confirmed from these reviews. Should one opt for Maruti Suzukiâ€™s latest model Ertiga for its fuel efficiency or play it safe with the ever reliable Tata Indica. These snippets of information prove quite useful in acquiring the perfect car.
