Many people have abandoned home phone these days only use a cell phone, but there are still millions of people who want the house to the Verizon FiOS phone service reliability. Using a mobile phone internal service can be unreliable since if the phone breaks or the battery is dead , you would be without the home phone and interurban or is happening through their mobile phone minutes, it may to obtain a very an expensive a very quickly.

If you're going to have a home business, or if you have small children at home, it's much better to have dedicated home phone service, or simply use your mobile phone. Verizon FiOS phone set the industry standard for residential telephone and more than a million people use VerizonFiOS phone because of clarity and reliability that it offers.

Verizon FiOS phone service is not your grandfather telephone service. This state of the art cutting edge digital phone service delivered directly to your home via fiber optic cable. Traditional phone lines use ordinary copper cables that are slow and sometimes unreliable.

If you also have cable TV and Internet or DSL Internet, TV and Internet services, as well as using the same cable that was put into your phone service. This causes massive slowdowns because there is no information of all three services trying to use the same cable at the same time, and there is only so much information that a simple cable can handle.

But when you switch to FiOS residential phone service, even if you have internet and TV VerizonFiOS information pipeline that comes into your home is huge, compared with a small traditional cable. Fiber optic cables used by VerizonFiOS is lightning fast and can handle large loads of information sense, that you will will not be getting decreased calls, or discontinued calls, for Internet slowdowns or television delays entailed for, even if the you are using a all three of services in the case the same time.

Optical fiber cable used in Verizon's FiOS also means that you get digital phone clarity home phone convenience. If a lot of long distance you will not be difficult to hear the person on the other hand, no matter how far away they are. You you can also get all of the same the functions of, that mobile phones, suggests, for instance, digital of voice mail for, call waiting, call the return and other popular functions.

There are different packages and plans to choose from when you switch to Verizon FiOS home phone service, and you can even keep your phone number. When you add your home phone service plan for Verizon's FiOS TV and Internet, you can save more and get fiber-optic TV and Internet service reliability and speed.

Not everyone has to have a home phone service, but if you do, or if you feel more comfortable home phone service, not just the mobile phone service you should consider to switch to Verizon FiOS. Combining all your telecommunications needs, such as TV, internet and telephone services, can significantly reduce the cost of your monthly bills.
