Article Side

Donâ€™t Miss out on the Opportunity to Visit San Francisco, One of the Most Visited Cities of the World by William Scarlet

Article published on January 18th 2012 | Destinations

San Francisco is a major Californian City known for its cultural diversity along with a distinct ethnic identity.  It offers scenic and beautiful locations while its city skyline is dotted with Victorian architecture along with friendly and liberal population which makes it a must-visit city. By opting for cheap tickets to San Francisco you can explore this city to the fullest.

Visiting San Francisco can be done almost all throughout the year for it enjoys a mild climate with dry summers and cool winters which are accompanied by rains. Most of the summer days experiences a fog and as the day progresses it becomes windy as well as sunny.  Do make it a point to travel with appropriate clothing especially a light jacket which makes you stay warm at times.  This is essential if you are boarding last minute flights to San Francisco or else you could find yourself slightly uncomfortable all throughout your trip.

The San Francisco Beer Week is scheduled to take place during mid February at the Concourse Exhibition Center. With over 60 Northern California breweries participating in the event, you can have your share of beer tastings, festivals, and food pairing dinners and much more all along with Bay Area. With the added attraction the evenings of the events will comprise of nanobrewers, offering beer along with established brewers as well.

If you get cheap flights to San Francisco during the month of March which again is a good time to visit the city for it coincides with the Annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. The St. Patrick's Day Parade attracts people all over the country and the world who wish to learn more about the Irish culture and have a good time in general. With main events taking place at the Center Plaza and on Grove Street, Polk to Larkin Street, make sure you know how to find your way out.

A trip to the Fishermanâ€™s Wharf is a must when you are in San Francisco especially with the iPolar Plunge scheduled during the second week of March. This event requires participants to plunge into the chilly waters as a fundraiser initiative for the Special Olympics Northern California.  It could be a must watch event, for participants will be gaily dressed up in crazy costumes and try their level best to dive into the chilly sea waters. With awards and festival like atmosphere, the iPolar Plunge is sure to be a memorable event for those visiting San Francisco. A trip to the Alcatraz Island from the wharf is simply a must for you can get a close view of the first light house built along with tide pools, bird colonies, bay views, gardens and much more, each of them simply breathtaking and marvelous.

Well, visiting San Francisco should be quite easy for there are many airlines offering you connections to this city from all most airports. Logging online to any of the reputed travel portals is one preferred way of getting information on latest flight schedules to San Francisco and also about the cheapest airline flights to San Francisco which you can take advantage of.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/destinations-articles/don-t-miss-out-on-the-opportunity-to-visit-san-francisco-one-of-the-most-visited-cities-of-the-world.htm - Article Side

William Scarlet - About Author:
William Scarlet is an associate editor with Farebuzz.com. The website offers exclusive information related to a last minute flights and a cheap flights to San Francisco. We also provide online reservation for cheap flights, Business flights, Cheap hotels, Car Rental and vacation packages.

Article Keywords:
cheap tickets to San Francisco,cheap flights to San Francisco ,cheapest airline flights to San Francisco,last minute flights

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!