Article Side

San Diego a pleasant climate and a relaxed atmosphere â€“ the perfect place to unwind by Aron Howard

Article published on March 23rd 2012 | Destinations

San Diego is located on the southern shore of California, close to the border with Mexico, 125 miles south of Los Angeles also around 600 miles south of San Francisco .The city lies on the edge of a huge bay that is protected by some flat peninsulas.

At present San Diego is the succeeding major metropolis in California. It is a great city, a year-an annual holiday center and a flourishing marketable port nit a large base of naval forces. In spite of its size, San Diego seems less crowded and hectic as Los Angeles. The climate is very comfortable, with pleasant temperatures all year round. In winter the days are typically temperate and the nights are clean. In summer, an enjoyable gentle wind from the Pacific relieves the warmth of the hot sun. The city does not experience the evils of air contamination like Los Angeles. San Diego is well connected with various international airlines, which offer best fares to the tourists.

The business district of San Diego is a corporation of elevated hotels, agency buildings and the resurrected "Gas Lamp Quarter." Now you will find a big meeting center, located on a big ship basin, more than a few exclusive shopping centers and a broad variety of bars, restaurants and clubs. On the eastern horizon, Balboa Park is located nearby the city and offers an extensive collection of museums, educational places and one of the finest zoos in the United States. The international airport of San Diego, which is well connected with Flights to San Diego, is located in the northwest of the central business district of San Diego, California.

What we need to see in San Diego

Any journey to San Diego must comprise of a trip to the Coronado Peninsula beaches and an excursion of the momentous Coronado Hotel. For visiting so many museums in Balboa Park one needs to do methodical planning as it takes a lot of time to visit it. A tour through the Old Town along with a visit to the Junipero Serra Museum and the Mission of San Diego takes another day. Make this a boat ride across the harbor, a stroll across the Embarcadero, and a walking tour through the Gas Lamp Quarter, and you have spent a pleasant week in visiting the beautiful San Diego.

Attractions near San Diego

Los Angeles, Californiaâ€™s largest city and a rambling metropolis, is located about two hours of drive away. This place houses the famous Long Beach, Hollywood, Beverly Hills and many other areas. With cooler temperatures, forests, vineyards and extensive greenery, an hour's drive east takes you to the Santa Rosa Mountains. Further east, you come into the dry desert valley from Palm Springs. Close to Palm Springs, the Salton Sea is also located. Here you will find high temperatures, sunshine round the year, golf courses and luxury resorts. A good half hour you will reach the Joshua Tree National Park with its ecology and its bizarre high desert landscape. Make sure you book your tickets early to avail cheap flights to San Diego. There are various tour organizers who help in getting cheap tickets to San Diego. So using cheap flights to San Diego and cheap tickets to San Diego, one can have all the opportunity to have some fun.

Article Source:

http://www.articleside.com/destinations-articles/san-diego-a-pleasant-climate-and-a-relaxed-atmosphere-the-perfect-place-to-unwind.htm - Article Side

Aron Howard - About Author:
Aron Howard is an associate editor with Farebuzz.com. The website offers exclusive information related to a target_new first class flight and a target_new cheap flights to San Diego.

Article Keywords:
San Diego holidays, beautiful city San Diego, travel to San Diego

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!