Seek an uncontested divorce with the help of an attorney by Catherine Hopkins

Article published on January 10th 2012 | Divorce

Whether due to a falling out or simply a desire to move on, many Atlanta area married couples may decide to seek a divorce. With regards to divorce, there are many options available, but the most cost effective and less stressful solution is an uncontested divorce. In an uncontested divorce, the couple has typically already come to a broad agreement on the issues and is simply seeking the advice of an Atlanta divorce lawyer in reducing their agreement to paper.

Why is a lawyer need in an uncontested divorce?

Often, a couple that is seeking or considering divorce has already decided amongst themselves how to resolve issues related to property division, spousal support and child custody. Any remaining matters may be quickly dealt with and may not necessarily even require the assistance of a divorce lawyer in Atlanta. However, while an uncontested divorce is typically simple to file, it is often beneficial to meet with an Atlanta divorce lawyer before reducing the agreement to paper.

In any contractual agreement, ambiguities or vagaries may exist that may not be easy to spot. But leaving these ambiguities in the agreement could lead to substantial litigation in the future as the spouses seek to enforce their understanding of what was signed. An Atlanta divorce lawyer, though, has experience in dealing with these kind of documents and can help the couple with creating an air-tight agreement. As a result, seeking legal assistance in an uncontested divorce may actually be more cost-effective in the long-term.

Divorce mediation

In most cases, even though the couple has come to a broad agreement about property division, spousal support and child custody, it may still be necessary to iron out any fine points. With respect to these issues, an Atlanta divorce lawyer may be able to provide mediation services when the couple is not able to come to an agreement between themselves. In such instances, divorce mediation is often preferable to court involvement as going before a judge can dramatically increase the cost of divorce as well as lead to uncertain results.

An Atlanta Divorce Law Firm can help

An Atlanta Uncontested Divorce is more cost-effective, less stressful, and often leads to better results than a confrontational divorce. Couples seeking or considering divorce in the Atlanta area may thus wish to meet with an Atlanta divorce lawyer to determine if an uncontested divorce is possible as well as assess their rights and obligations before committing to a divorce filing.

Atlanta divorce law firms often have experience with a number of different kinds of divorces, and they can utilize this knowledge to your benefit. A divorce lawyer in Atlanta can help in creating an air-tight agreement that dissolves the marriage with little or no ill-will between the parties and without leaving any ambiguities that could create legal problems in the future. Furthermore, any disputes that remain between the parties before they are able to come to an agreement may be resolved with divorce mediation, thus avoiding the need for costly litigation and court involvement.
