The colleges in Mumbai have tried to maintain a definite standard of education and training for most of their top category colleges. Top BDS and BMS colleges in Mumbai is also no exception. They are determined to maintain a definite position in their national ranking and drive their students and faculties for that. Some of the colleges also think out some innovative ways to impart training so that students do have an edge to other students in their professional training.

The top colleges are mostly state sponsored or in collaboration with state so that the locations are mostly in the prime spots and that itself helps. In most of the professional fields there is a necessity of industry interaction for the students to get a feel of the professional world they are going into, a college in the locality of such professional establishments will have more options of getting the interactions. That was one of the ideas to put the top BDS and BMS colleges in Mumbai in vibrant localities.

Infrastructure for these colleges are robust as that is very much necessary to provide a good training though there will not be the necessary cleanliness desired of such an establishment. Whatever may be the case but the infrastructure and the free use of the instruments and equipments help the students get familiarisation with the processes necessary for the profession. These colleges also maintain their expenditure burden on the student to a minimum and in the process help many of the lesser privileged students to get the education. That itself increase the talent pool of students and result in better pass outs. They calculate their expenditure very carefully to stand among the top BDS and BMS colleges in Mumbai.

Since these colleges attach with them a service centre to provide for the people there is always necessary supply of reference cases at hand for the students to work on or refer to. All these build up the experience body of the students who want to have one. It can be said that the apparent reasons which seem to hinder the growth of an institution work to improve the status and standard of a college to put it among the top BDS and BMS colleges in Mumbai.
