Shahnaab Alam Co-Directed "Aye Watan Tere Liye", a multi-star film industry event for the Indian Army

Apart from being the executive producer of the mainstream Bollywood flicks, Shahnaab Alam also has spearheaded a few off the beaten track projects. It is due to such an initiative that helped him to play an integral part in producing â€˜Ghoom Taanaâ€™, a short musical film. This film included cast and support staffs from both India and Pakistan in equal numbers. It is indeed a noble project that featured Nandita Das and also included an eponymous song as sung by Salman Ahmad, the lead singer of the Pakistani band Junoon and the notable Indian classical singer Subha Mudgal. The sole aim of the project was to bring people of both the countries close to one another, and thereby strengthening the cultural ties.

Shahnaab Alam movies have always left a distinct mark. A mark that has something to tell about to the audience. A mark that has something to offer them with much to ponder about. Just like his upcoming project named as â€˜Motherlandâ€™ deals with reflecting the variety of Indian landscapes in three different stages - tropical, desert, and mountain. Therefore, his next venture is also awaiting to explore something new, something that have not been explored till date. It is by projecting this type of ingeniousness that any of the projected Shahnaab Alam Bollywood flicks make the audiences glued to it. So, when you are listening to anything coming from his production house, it is got to be a great.

Mr Alam has also been credited with direction of a lot of mega events. Some of the most notable ones are co-directing 1997â€™s Ad-Club Awards, and co-directing the 1st Lux Zee Cine Awards and that of the 1st Sansui Viewers Choice Movie Awards in the next year. The most prominent Shahnaab Alam news has been his association with Anupam Kher, one of the highly regarded prolific actors Bollywood has ever produced, in co-directing â€˜Aye Watan Tere Liyeâ€™, which was a gala Bollywood event presented for the bravehearts of Indian Army. The event took Mr Alam to scale great heights in the Indian film industry, and was also applauded in the reviews and critical assessments for his authenticity and force.
