In order to throw the best possible anniversary party you need to plan ahead. There are so many parts to any social gathering. There are many factors which you need to take care of. From the decision about the guest list to the eating and drinking arrangement, entertainment, games and decorations everything needs to be just perfect. Make a program list including everything which the itinerary is going to include. Once you have decided on what to do, the next part is the advance booking of the venue-if present, the decorators and catering etc. This way you can ensure their full hearted participation in the proceedings.

The best anniversary party agenda will include the participation of the couple in the event one way or other. One needs to make sure that they remain the cynosure of all eyes throughout. The games can be such that it includes some or other facet of the life of the couple. For example you can do a guessing event where the person who can answer the maximum question regarding the guests of honor will win. The venue can carry photos of the husband and wife from their marriage onwards as part of the decorations. They should be made to cut the cake holding the knife together. And buy online best weddings anniversary gifts for husband and wife.

The food also will be such which is the favorite of husband and wife. They should have a special say in the menu. However before, everybody goes on to do justice to the food toast in the honor of the honored guests is in order. Champagne is the traditional drink which is used while proposing the toast is concerned. Other things to consider include sparkling cider and even non-alcoholic beverages if you have teetotaler in your midst. Toasting is also the time when anecdotes are shared and sweet memories are brought to the fore which has helped to strengthen the relationship over the years.

Anniversary is the time of reminiscences and a time of relive the happiness which have kept two people together as a couple all through the years. Quite naturally the agenda should encompass all the myriad phases and stages including the rough and tumbles which constitute a married life. In the modern age when divorces are rampant and people changes spouses in tune with new dresses and finery, there is a need to bring happily married couple who have lead fulfilling years in close proximity. They can form grand examples for the young people to follow in their own lives.
