Some school going children enjoy their summer holidays. Many children they want to enjoy these holidays play with their friends or play video games or watch cartoon programs on TV etc. But only some of them with the help of their parents plan their holidays in a useful, beneficial and in a funny entertaining way. Many of the parents want to take their children to their native place and show them all the developments made there. They do not know what is planning and the importance of planning. You don't really have to lead a planned life from the very beginning. Only after a certain age those are required. Children hate to follow timetables during vacations. At least during vacation let them enjoy. During the working days, they do follow timetables in a systematic way. That is more than enough.

But parents should plan about their children's vacation, as in where to take them rather than keeping them at home all throughout the vacation. And in South , most of the marriages takes place during the summer and eventually the parents plan to grace the occasion with the children. And parents can only plan their holidays well as per the predetermined timing. Children will be expecting a perfect holiday enjoyment every time.

Whether you are a traditional dad in a traditional family, a non custodial dad, a stay home dad, a stepdad, or whatever your role, the most precious thing a dad can give his kids is his time. A personal investment in your children is much more important to them than any toy, video game or electronic gadget.
