Know Why Your Hair Thickening Shampoo is Not Helping by Doglusbrown

Article published on May 11th 2012 | Health

Lost in the junk of hair growth serums and hair loss shampoos for women? You are not alone. A number of women around the world are sick of trying different shampoos that are found on supermarket shelves! Especially those that promise to combat hair loss issues. A handful of them have found success with one or two brands, but largely, it's sheer trash. Even in the case of those handful of women who have been able to solve their hair thinning issues, it is difficult to measure the contribution of the shampoo brand being used. There could be different factors, secretly making things better for them.

Most of the brands out there are making hollow claims. All such â€˜hair rejuvenatingâ€™ shampoos hardly contain any hair growth inducers, and none were ever proven to be helpful in gaining fuller looking hair. How effective they are, in dealing with different kinds of hair thinning causes, becomes clear in the space of a month. In such a scenario, how do you find out why your shampoo is not helping? You could begin by being aware of all the reasons that cause hair thinning in women and also, if you too, are suffering from any of them.

Blind usage of hair loss shampoo for women won't solve the issue. In women, there can be many reasons that cause hair loss. Unless they are treated, stopping hair loss won't be possible. Understand what could be the hidden causes of hair loss in women and treat accordingly.

Stress

Stress is unavoidable in today's age, especially for working women who move around outdoors and then come home to the daily chores every day. One of the adverse effects of stress and tension on a woman's health could be hair loss. So, if you keep using one of the best hair loss shampoo for women without letting up on stress, seeing results will be anything, but possible. Do away with stress from your life before throwing that shampoo bottle out of the window!

Hormonal Imbalance

Hormonal changes also trigger sudden hair loss in women. It could just be a one-time big change that is causing a hormonal disharmony or a continuous health issue. See a gynecologist for possible hormonal reasons that could be causing thinning of hair. Some well known conditions that can adversely affect hair are pregnancy, menopause and thyroid disorder. Once the root cause of the problem is arrested, hair thickening shampoos might not be required at all.

Skewed Diet Nutrition

Whether the hair loss is gradual or sudden, a corresponding decrease in the nutrition value of daily diet could be its primary cause. Add more fruits, lentils, sprouts, soya, meat and dairy products in your diet. Rich and nutritious diet will surely reflect on the health of your hair.

Minoxidil, which is approved by FDA, is found to be successful in handling hair loss and thinning issues. Pick a hair loss shampoo for women, which has Minoxidil mentioned in its list of ingredients. Such a shampoo, along with the right medical treatment, will help you deal with hair thinning. So, the next time you look at that array of attractive bottles of shampoo for thinning of hair in women, pick with the confidence of dealing with hair loss, three sixty degrees.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/health-articles/know-why-your-hair-thickening-shampoo-is-not-helping.htm - Article Side

Doglusbrown - About Author:
So many brands of hair loss shampoo for women are available in the market that choosing the best one is quite difficult. Tackle the specific, root cause of hair thinning and choose a clinically tested hair solution like a Keranique, which contains Minoxidil and improves hair density and texture. a Shampoo for thinning hair for women is helpful in gaining a fuller looking hair.

Article Keywords:
Shampoo for thinning hair,fuller looking hair,Keranique

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!