Writing a good article by IRFAN

Article published on January 9th 2012 | Article Marketing

Blog writing has become extremely common and yet popular all across the globe. If you also come up with the idea to start a blog one day soon, donâ€™t be surprised as every other person is writing a blog or rather a free blog on one or the other topic. However, the percentage of people who have jumped into this writing business does not necessarily means that they are all writing a good blog that meets all the criteriaâ€™s of an effective writing.

In order to start a blog and make it an effective one, you need to remember some important points while writing it some of which are given below for your further guidance:

a. Do extensive research: Doing proper research on the topic that you have selected to start a blog is a highly significant step without any measure of speculations. In this regard, it is also recommended to take into account more than one source to gain information on your specific subject that you have to write about. Moreover, another important point is to go for reliable sources and double check that information that you have read about your topic before including it in your article in order to avoid any fuss later on. Use the right information in your free blog that people want to know as well as ensuring the credibility factor side by side to fulfill the criteriaâ€™s of a good article.

b. Attractive title: In order to create a blog or rather a free blog which people would want to read, you need to give it an attractive title that not only motivates the reader to go through it whole at least once but it should also be reflective of your subject matter.

c. Clear and precise: A good article is the one that is clear, concise and as much to the point as possible. People in todayâ€™s busy world do not have time to read lengthy and ambiguous articles. Thus, every time you sit to create a blog or a free blog, make sure you make it precise and exact.

d. Follow a proper format; start a blog with a proper intro, write the main points in the body and then end your article with a proper conclusion. Do not forget to proof read the article once it is done to check the spellings and other grammatical mistakes.
