Article directories are the websites having bank of articles on various topics. These sites are easily accessible by people, from all parts of the world and they can get, whatever information, they need for them. These can be accessed any time. Thus, it will not be wrong to say that these directories are one of the most significant sources of information in online world. Keeping in view, these facts, we know it very well that one can easily access a number of best article directories on internet. These sites are known to be one of the ways that allow best article marketing. These sites allow everyone to submit ones articles written on, whatever products and services, he offers to the people. These are also; known to be as the best article directories for backlinks because they allow people to add links in the articles that takes them back to the website of the writer. In short, as we have already said that there are a number of directories, thus, it will not be wrong to say that for, a new person looking, for such a site, it will be very difficult to find best article directory for him. Same is the case, if one wants to find for him best article marketing sites.

No doubt, one will find a number of places to submit articles, as well, as to read certain information on various topics, but, in order, to find the best place to do so is no doubt, a time consuming process. Underlined are the most significant features that a best article directory must possess in it:

â€¢ Page ranking matters the most. People like to visit those article submission directories that get more traffic. Thus, you must always look at the page ranking of the directory at the search engine. When you will submit your article at a high page ranked article directory then you will see a rapid impact on your Search Engine position. It is because when people will visit this directory, they will read your article and following the back-links, they will reach your site.

â€¢ Always look for the websites that facilitate its visitors, with the feature of RSS. It is due to the fact that a large number of article users will grab the RSS feed, from article submission directory sites. Thus, you must also search for a site offering RSS feed, as per topic and sub topic.

â€¢ There are certain directories that will tell you the number of articles, they have; while, others will give you a guess, only. So, make a look for the ones that offer you exact number of articles, they have. They will also tell you, the number of authors, they have registered with them, as well.

â€¢ What is the use of an article, if no one can find it? Search for the sites that entertain you with search by author, search by article text, as well, as search by keywords. When you submit an article, go to the site, after few days and see that if you can find your article easily or not.
