The Importance of Winter Vehicle Maintenance by Robert Vadra

Article published on January 3rd 2012 | Travel

Winter has arrivedâ€”whether you like it or not! Unfortunately, snow, sleet and ice make for dangerous road conditions. For your safety and the safety of others, it is extremely important to prepare your vehicle for winter driving. Here are a few things you can do to help prevent accidents while youâ€™re on the road this season.

1. Ensure that your vehicle has enough antifreeze. This liquid is what keeps your car running properly in freezing cold conditions. It is poured into the radiator element of your vehicle, which must be flushed before the cold season.

2. In addition to antifreeze, you also need to make sure there is enough windshield washing fluid in your wipers. This fluid will come in handy when youâ€™re driving on roads covered in sleet and mud.

3. Test your windshield wipers. Having working windshield wipers is especially important for being able to see the road in winterâ€”just think of all that snow!

4. Get winter tires installed! Winter tires can make a huge difference when driving in snowy conditions. The enhanced grip and traction functions on winter tires deliver much better performance in snowy conditions than normal tires.

5. Once youâ€™ve installed winter tires, check their pressure! Proper tire pressure is necessary for optimal traction. It is especially important to check your tire pressure regularly in winter, because the cold temperature outside could cause the air in your tires to contract.
