Tour South Africa: the best holiday destination in the world! by John Wood

Article published on January 5th 2012 | Travel

My kids had just completed their exams and were pestering my wife to take them for a vacation to South Africa. They had heard a lot about South Africa from TV channels and were yearning to explore places like Capetown, Durban and Johannesburg. So we checked out a travel portal and booked Cheap Flights to Johannesburg by calling up the helpline number mentioned on the home page of the website.

We were told by our polite travel consultant that it would be a long twelve hour journey from London to Capetown via a South African Airways flight. Being an overnight journey we decided to catch up on some sleep before we touched down to Capetown. When we reached Capetown we were impressed by the scenic natural beauty and picturesque charm of this capital city. The first thing that we saw in this city was the picturesque Table Mountain. Thereafter we proceeded to take a tour of the Kirstenbosch National Botanical Gardens. Our next stop was a tour of the Langa or Khyelista townships that gave us an insight into the life of how people from the Black community live.

When we booked our flights to South Africa, our travel consultants had told us that Capetown has some very interesting markets that you shouldnâ€™t miss.

So we decided to check out the Canal Walk Shopping Centre in Century City, the cobble-stoned Green Market Square, Red Shed and Waterfront Markets that had items of necessary use at every price point. And we purchased a bag full of souvenirs, mementoes and gifts for our friends back home.

Why donâ€™t you also check out South Africa on your next holiday?

It will be great fun!
