First question that might cross your mind as a homeowner is why do you need made to measure blinds? Homes in UK have different shapes, sizes and structures of windows to go well with the overall home design. Some windows may occupy the entire wall of a room while some others are square, rectangular, open in or open out. Homeowners might also have French windows or bay windows. Thus there are many varieties of windows. Problem is leading blinds stores make blinds based on certain popular or standard sizes. These sizes are according to the norms of the building industry. It is held that most homes have windows of this shape or size. But there might be many windows that are not made according to these specification. Does this mean that the homeowners wanting to be different will suffer? As a homeowner you might have different ideas for your dream home and based on that the builder has to set a plan. That is very logical, and you should not be penalised for that.

Way out for such homeowners in UK are made to measure blinds. As the regular blinds will not fit into their odd shaped or sized window so you need to specially order for your choice of window blinds. While some windows may need valances others need extra height or width. Another need for the made to measure blinds arises when you may have a standard sized window but the colour options displayed at the online blinds store are not meeting your requirements. You can order for the colour of your choice using the customisation service.

There are plenty of options available with the made to measure blinds. You can choose the patterns, colours, designs and types of blinds. Such choices help the homeowners create an absolutely unique room. Though the made to measure services cost a little extra, but the makers have to put in extra effort and time too. With the made to measure blinds you can be rest assured that the blinds will fit in perfectly onto your window. The measurements have to be taken by the customers and they will send the dimensions to the blinds store. Using these specifications the made to measure blinds are made. It is said that fittings is the most important criteria for window blinds. Only a perfect fit can assure that all the functionalities are achieved.

Homes are made of dreams and homeowners want to settle for nothing less than their exact choices. With the standard blinds you might not get the exact shade you are looking for. But made to measure blinds offer the privilege of selecting any particular shade or design. The blinds stores will prepare blinds of that colour. Thus it will enhance the visual appeal of your rooms significantly. You can also opt for other options such as water, fire retardant, solar protection, anti glare coating, child safety, etc. These are very useful features for modern homes.

Made to measure blinds come with a host of features and privileges. They are time and energy consuming on the part of the makers. Thus they have higher price tags then the conventional window blinds. Benefits that homeowners can enjoy with made to measure blinds makes them cost effective purchases.
