Right from the beginning of the world everyone knows how much unpredictable their life can be. Our life is full of surprises, some turns out to be good one and some turns out to be the worst nightmare. Previously there was nothing that could help you in your bad financial crises. If you have met some serious accident and you are not in condition to work or continue your job, here starts your worst financial time. Lately in this situation you do nothing but sale your assets to get some money for your bread and butter. But for how long your assets are going to help you? There will be a time when you will run out of assets. It is now very important for you to be pulling your socks before you meet such situation. This can be done only if you bring income protection insurance program under your consideration. What is protection program? How it can help you? The protection program pays on your behalf to all the bills and other financial commitments when you are not in financial condition of paying them on your own. For example the income protection will pay for your monthly mortgage, rent, loan payment, credit card bills as well as your utility bills. There is no condition that you will survive without paying them or even paying them on your own.

The Income Protection Insurance is safe guard for your income and makes maximum efforts to keep you with peace of mind so that you do not face any mental depression or tension which can increase the duration of your poor health. This program pays for your expenses until you are back in good condition to start working. This program will pay all your expenses till you are better, by providing 75% of your salary or monthly income.

The income protection as said helps you during your unemployment and pays your financial obligation. Some people mix this program with the unemployment program. However there is huge difference in both programs. The income protection program basically pays when you are on unemployment due to any injury and even the injury that you are facing has resulted due to none of your mistake. While the benefits for unemployment program are offered to the person who is facing financial crises due to high inflation in the country. The unemployed person has no link with any type of injury. The terms and conditions of both programs vary.

On the whole, income protection insurance enables you and your family to sustain through the crisis by providing an alternative income. This has helped many families in maintaining their living standards even when the earning member is injured or completely on rest.
