Travel Advice for Backpackers- What to Pack Along with Backpacker Insurance by Marry James

Article published on December 30th 2011 | Insurance

This is the backpackersâ€™ travel essentials guide which helps young adventurists prepare adequately for their journey. Written from experience, this contains useful tips and suggestions related to backpacking essentials. It provides you with the answers to the questions such as what to pack, how to go about finding the right backpacking insurance, where to find cheap flight tickets and what kind of shoes you must carry.

A backpacking trip offers you several new experiences. You get to see several historic and contemporary places, experience different cultures and traditions, encounter different incidents, sample new food and explore natural wonders. Travelling around the world broadens your horizons. If your first trip goes well, you would want to go on backpacking again and again. Once you start, you get addicted to it. It makes you learn how to be on your own.

A backpacking trip is usually taken by youthful travellers who explore the world in a very limited budget. They just carry a backpack with bare essentials on their back and go camping, hiking and walking most of the times during their trip. The first requirement to enjoy it thoroughly is to have a light rucksack. Because backpackers walk a lot, a heavy bag can make it difficult to walk. Moreover, it can hurt your bag and give a permanent back pain. So, the first essential is to keep light. But that doesnâ€™t mean that you shouldnâ€™t carry the essentials.

The perfect backpackers own a perfect pair of shoes. If you want to be comfortable all the time, stick to flip flops with sturdy soles and strong grip for walking on plains. For hiking, instead of traditional heavy hiking boots, stick to light weight comfy shoes. Keep loose t-shirts, track pants and shorts that are wrinkle and odour-free. Roll them rather than folding them while keeping them in your bag.

Purchase backpacker holiday insurance before leaving your home. All experienced and amateur backpackers need to purchase adequate insurance cover in order to keep them safe. Because they are on a limited budget, having a travel cover is the most important essential for a backpacking trip that keeps them protected against all odds.

There are numerous companies offering insurance cover to backpackers but it is recommended to source a reliable company. For purchasing backpacker insurance UK, you can rely on Travel Guard. They are the most reputed and reliable insurance company in the UK.

If you are looking for cheap flight deals, consider booking one or two months in advance. All airline companies offer more than 50 percent discount on advance booking. Using all these tips, you can make your backpacking a memorable experience.
