Article published on August 10th 2012 | Auto

Honda Civic cars are among the most common used cars to modify for a variety of reasons. Not only is the Honda Civic wildly popular, Honda parts and Honda accessories are readily available both from dealer and from aftermarket suppliers. Whether you're a speed demon who wants to tune the Honda Civic for maximum performance or a Honda driver who wants to create a custom look with a few choice Honda Civic modifications, your local Honda Hamilton dealer, Sterling Honda, can hook you up with the right Honda parts. Below are a few entry-level Honda Civic modifications to consider.

Honda Civic Air Intake Systems

Equip your used Honda Civic with a more efficient air intake system and pump air into the engine for more power and better efficiency. Don't forget Honda parts and accessories related to the air intake system such as air intake filters, air bypass valves, and air intake filter cleaning kits.

Honda Civic Exhaust Systems

What goes in must come out, and that includes the air that your Honda Civic's air intake system breathed in. Exhaust systems move air from the engine block â€“ and depending on what type of exhaust system you choose for your used Honda, can add a rich sound to your ride. Honda parts and accessories related to the exhaust system include catalytic converters, sports headers, mufflers, and exhaust tips.

Honda Civic Wheels and Tires â€“ An Instant Makeover for Used Cars

Hamilton Honda Civic owners have another option for an instant transformation, custom wheels and tires. Custom wheels can quickly change a car's personality from run-of-the-mill to sporty, aggressive, racy, or even sophisticated. Whether you want your Honda Civic to look refined as you drive the streets of St. Catharines and Ancaster or sporty as you zip over to Barrie Speedway, choosing a set of custom wheels and tires can quickly transform your car's appearance. Depending on the wheels and tires you choose, they can also improve your Civic's performance and handling.
