Some of the world's best known car manufacturers, both in terms of quality and quantity, come from Japan. You name it, the Japanese have it. Renowned car brands like Mitsubishi, Suzuki, Mazda, Nissan, Toyota, Honda, and Subaru have made Japan a force to reckon with in the international automobile market.

In most parts of Canada like Edmonton, as well as the rest of the world, Japanese cars remain popular choices for both used and brand new auto dealerships. Due to their fuel-efficiency, comfort, and reliability, these brands have captured the hearts of most of the Canadian car buying public. One Japanese brand in particular has consistently topped the list of the best selling cars in the country.

While Subaru is a relatively new Japanese car brand compared to its older and more established counterparts, it has found a niche in the consciousness of car enthusiasts the world over. It is manufactured under the Fuji Heavy Industries conglomerate, which started as the Aircraft Research Laboratory, makers of the infamous Zero fighter during World War II. The company has come a long way in the field of car manufacturing since its inception and is now known for its various technologically advanced innovations.

Subaru means "unite" in Japanese, and it is also a term describing a cluster of six stars known in Greek as the Pleiades which has been adopted as the brand's official logo. The car manufacturer was the first Japanese company to offer front-wheel drive cars in Japan and the first to introduce four-wheel drive cars in the world. It maintains several automotive manufacturing plants in the world.

Today, Subaru is considered one of the best Japanese car brands in the world, offering consumers with various models to suit their needs. These models include the Impreza, Impreza WRX, Legacy, Outback, Forester, and Tribeca. Most Edmonton car dealerships have all these models including other brands in their inventory to provide clients extensive vehicle choices.

Edmonton Subaru dealerships offer not only new units of the brand, but also used cars of various makes and models. These include Nissans, Fords, Kias, Suzukis, and many more certified pre-owned vehicles. Clients can opt for financing to make owning a vehicle much easier.

Edmonton used car dealers make their customers feel like real VIPs by providing them with the best service and comforts. Clients are assured of a unique car buying experience found nowhere else outside Edmonton. For more information on the subject, you may want to visit carfolio.com.
