Travel Trailers: an Overview of Features and Benefits by Tia Oshields

Article published on February 29th 2012 | Auto

A travel trailer, also known as a caravan, is a trailer towed behind a road vehicle. It emerged in the early 1920s and became known as a home trailer in the 1950s and 1960s. A travel trailer shares the same origin with the motor home though they have differences. A motor or mobile home is a prefabricated house built on a chassis to which they are permanently attached and transported using tractor trailers. Usually, motor homes are left permanently in one location, while a travel trailer is more mobile.

Smaller travel trailers are designed for touring purposes. Thus, they are generally lighter than larger travel trailers that function as homes and are towed by sports utility vehicles, trucks, or towing cars. Some of the features that a modern travel trailer has includes full beds, toilet, shower, refrigerator, oven, microwave, stove, grill, heater, aircon units, sofa, and a decent entertainment system. Appliances and other devices are powered by either gas or electricity.

A travel trailer is the perfect vehicle if you want to travel with your family. It is designed to serve as a sleeping quarter that is more comfortable compared with camping beds or tents.

Lower Transportation Costs

Using a travel trailer on a vacation definitely lowers your transportation costs. This is perfect if you want a vacation that fits your budget. Because you only need to spend on fuel, you don't need to worry about the cost of travel fare. You can control your budget better because you can calculate the fuel needed to reach your itinerary. Look for a cargo trailer Edmonton dealers have that gives you good gas mileage.

Accommodation

The primary benefit of a travel trailer is that it gives you the comfort of a home without having to book in hotels. This, of course, saves you a lot of money. Just calculate the cost of a typical hotel accommodation. The money is better spent on enjoying what a place has to offer in the comfort of your own home. It also enables you to stay in places when there are no hotels or motels. edmonton travel trailers are known for giving you more options when it comes to accommodation.

Convenience

A travel trailer gives you the convenience of knowing where appliances and fixtures are and how they work. Moreover, you don't have to endure hotel meals that may not be as satisfying as the home-cooked meals you can have in the convenience of your travel trailer. Make sure that the edmonton travel trailers you're checking out have such features for your convenience.
