Goa is synonymous with fun and enjoyment. The place has got an addictive charisma which beckons you repeatedly. One trip to Goa is never enough to satisfactorily enjoy the ambiance of the place. However, there are so many places to visit in this beautiful country of ours that it is only fair that you allot holiday to times to places other than Goa. The best option you have is to make the most of your holiday time in Goa. To get more time, you can cut down your to and fro travel time by choosing to fly to this little state of India. There are regular Delhi flights, Kolkata flights and return Goa to Delhi flights on a regular basis. Choosing to fly is a great way to optimize on your limited holiday time.

The nearest airport for international tourists who want to visit Goa is Mumbai. Although Dabolim International Airport in Goa does receive international arrivals, there are very few international airlines which offer direct flights to Goa. Usually, chartered flights are seen in the airport. So, if you are flying in from abroad, you can fly into one of the major international airports in India and then take a flight to Goa. You will find many Delhi flights flying directly to Goa. There are also several Kolkata flights which operate to Goa. Indigo Airlines is a low cost airline which you can book into. Spice Jet, GoAir and Jet Airways run efficient services. Kingfisher Airlines was also a major provider for Goa to Delhi flights and Goa to Kolkata flights. But now that Kingfisher is almost bankrupt, the service might no longer be available.

Dabolim Airport in Goa is well equipped with all basic facilities. The arrival hall of the airport also has a money exchange office, a Goa tourism office and offices of various airlines which offer flights to and from Goa. After landing in the airport, you can opt for a prepaid taxi to reach your destination. If you travel with a Goa tourism holiday package which has airport pickup facility, you will be all the more comfortable.

Besides Delhi flights, air travel facility is available from Goa to several Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities as well. Flights also connect Goa to places such as Varanasi, Indore, Vijayawada, Bhavnagar and Kanpur. There are places in every city from where you can take a flight to Goa. So, make use of the facility and buy more time to spend in this tourist haven. Be it Goa to Delhi flights or flights to any other place, tour operators ensure that your tickets are booked. What is more, they also try and get you the most cost effective offer.

When in Goa, the inventory of things which you can do is almost endless. Visit the great beaches of the state, plan a trip to the heritage structures, forts and ancient ruins, experience the spirituality of the state by visiting the temples, churches and mosques and let your hair down to enjoy in the beach parties.
