Have a look on holy gifts - perhaps the best present for someone by John Kennedy

Article published on November 25th 2011 | Religion

Gifts really doesnâ€™t need any occasion or purpose to present someone. Whenever we are in a good mood we love to share it all with our closed ones. How is it if we add gifts to these celebrations? And how is it if they carry some extra significance? We are free to choose a lot variety of gifts available in the market to suit our needs and wish both. But if we have fun and joy along with the blessing of God in the form of pure and sacred gifts, then it acts as an extra benefit. Isnâ€™t it?

Holy land gifts are one such special bag of gifts which possess such special significance and inner importance with them. The word is related to the birth place of Jesus Christ which is known as holy land. Christmas being the most auspicious day of the Christian community is the best occasion to celebrate with these holy gifts. Itâ€™s the best time to feel Godâ€™s closeness and hence to be spiritual with our soul so as to get a better view of our own selves. These gifts mainly includes Jesus statues, sculptures, Holy water, rosaries, Holy books like Bibles etc to avail us with the divine touch of the Almighty. These gift items are mainly prepared for this occasion but may be given to followers of other communities or in any other occasions also. Let whatever be the religion and whoever is the follower, gifts always perform the same act of showering love and gesture to everyone. An occasion is the best moment for saying Thanks to God for all his love and care with a chance to have a look on our own deeds too. If a gift is helping us out to convert our negatives into positive for better living then it is a good way of feeling God. Apart from that there also exist different kinds of gifts which are not materialistic in nature but are of course the best one if given to somebody. These includes knowledge, wisdom, help, love, kindness, mercy etc which strengthens the inner part of a person to clear out his sins and ill thoughts into fresh and pure feeling of humanity. These are known as Spiritual gifts which helps us to regain our lost hope in the hardships of life so as to rejuvenate ourselves once again to fill up the gap of incompleteness and dissatisfactions. These also give us a feeling of being blessed by the Almighty. Even if not virtually seen, they sort out the purpose of grooming oneâ€™s heart with all good thoughts. If a person turns happy and content towards life and god, then I think gifts and occasions are justifying their definitions.

Different religion possesses different ways to worship God and celebrate, but the underlying matter of feeling happy and let others happy is the same everywhere. Gifts act as a medium to enhance this feeling of love and kindness amongst everybody. And if they really signify out some extra meaning and importance to oneâ€™s life, then these are definitely better than the ordinary showpieces. So, now onwards before buying, we must give a look to these holy and spiritual gifts.
