Article Side

Most Popular Languages in the World and Growing Popularity of Spanish Language

by Martin Mathews

Article published on January 4th 2012 | Seo

Nowadays, the internet is being adopted by more and more people and usage of several languages online are increasing day by day. There are ten languages which have got most popularity among all the languages. According to the studies, English is the language which is most commonly used in the Internet. There are many English speakers around the world and they use Internet and English language to communicate better with their counterparts. According to a recent calculation, 537 million internet users use English in the Internet as their primary language.

The next position goes to the language Chinese. Around 440 million internet users use this language as their basic language. English and Chinese are not the only languages which are used most on the internet. The third rank goes to Spanish. Around 153.3 million people around the world uses this language as their way to communicate online.

Spanish is a popular language in the Western region of this world. Around half billion and more people use this language as the official language on a regular basis. It has been seen that more than 100 languages are spoken in USA, but among the non-native English speakers, Spanish is most common. According to a study, the Spanish-speaking shoppers comprises of the fastest evolving market of USA as well as the Spanish market. Connected with millions of South and Central American consumers, the current niche market is widely open to the businesses which are wished to accustom of the times. By understanding the Hispanic demographic of USA, efficient messages can be delivered to get human resource management, marketing and legal goals.

To communicate with the Hispanic market is not a great courtesy; most of the Spanish speaking people in USA are not very fluent in English. In fact they have a very limited speaking skill of English. Spanish language translation is counted to be the foremost step to reach the group of consumers. This way many Latinos and Hispanics have great incomes The businesses which overcomes the language barrier by availing Spanish translation, find them in a great position to reach over a number of consumers. The Spanish speaking consumers are often professionals with good payment jobs in the fields of insurance, medical and construction.

Many companies have made inroads into Hispanic market of US and they have started to tap the Latino markets in South and Central America as the Spanish speaking consumers are known to be the wave of the Hispanic market future.

Nowadays, the Internet has changed into a very popular medium among all the consumers who speaks Spanish as it has been a part of the other population groups spread worldwide. The English to Spanish translation is seemed to be a hurdle of business for the US companies who today are meeting with those companies which offer services of English to Spanish translation. The payment which is involved in the advertising and translation of websites into Spanish seems to be prohibitive but the US based companies require keen attention at the plans that this business strategy provides.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/seo-articles/most-popular-languages-in-the-world-and-growing-popularity-

Martin Mathews - About Author:
We represent one of the top translation service providers. They provide translation services for the a Hispanic market like a English to Spanish translation.

Article Keywords:
Spanish Market, Spanish Website

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!