Embroidery Digitizing Service, Embroidery Design and Digitizers in USA

Embroideries made through computerized technology are a part of the digital revolution. They are no longer sewed in machines in paper tapes instead made through specially programmed computer software. Embroidery Digitizing is nothing but to enable an embroidering machine to sew a logo or a design. However the art must first be converted into a format the machine can read. A digitizer takes the file and plots points for the embroidering machine that make up the final design. Without this file the machine does not know where to sew.
