â€˜Diamondsâ€™ an explicitly beautiful antique to present, is the costliest of everything today. Carving for diamond is popular but a knack for yellow diamonds is in the latest trend. As these diamonds are hardly available around, they are even more costly than the other diamonds. A very fine yellow diamond with good shape and cut can cost thousands of dollars. Very rarely found, these diamonds appear bright yellow in color. Earlier it was not much known but now due to the growing interest of famous people all around for this diamond, the popularity has touched the skyline along with the cost. These are mostly developed artificially and are available all throughout the world and a piece of real diamond of yellow color is hard to find.

These diamonds are made due to the presence of nitrogen atoms instead the carbon. The nitrogen atoms bring a yellowish texture to the diamond which appears to be bright yellow in color. However, it can only be traced in large diamond mines; even then the chances are only 1 percent of all the diamonds. Whatever may be the reason; these diamonds are a real exploration to the beauty world.

From ordinary to the extra ordinary world, these yellow diamonds have a dazzling effect which has shear worth of antiqueness in it. These are available loosely or studded with the jewelries and can be purchased from diamond stores. But not all diamond stops offer the best price, quality and returns. So, while buying a yellow diamond one should be very thoughtful about it.

Known to be the largest of all tiffany yellow diamond was discovered in South Africa. It was cut in a cushion shape to excel its brilliance. Tiffany diamond is 287 carats and is known to be one of the best diamonds all through the world. The grace of yellow diamond bounds a person to own it but its cost is much more than any other diamond present. Therefore there is slow move towards the artificial diamonds which are same as the real ones but cost much lesser than the original. These qualities make the fake diamonds in much fashion than the original ones especially for the yellow colored diamonds.

Yellow diamonds were very rarely looked upon, as they were considered to be the poorest quality of diamonds. But now with more and more such diamonds in demand, there is a shortage of very best diamonds all over. The celebrities have given the market of yellow colored diamonds a real boost, due to which it has been known to be the most sought after diamonds all through. This color is bright, lively and natural inculcating a glowing effect to the array of diamonds today.
