So, youâ€™ve finally found that perfect woman, and youâ€™ve decided to take that next big step in your relationship; the proposal. But first, you need to find the perfect ring. A basic understanding of the four most important aspects of engagement rings will help you choose one sheâ€™ll be proud to wear forever.

Diamond engagement rings are the most common choice, and therefore offer the largest selection; a selection so large, in fact, that at first it may seem a bit overwhelming. Fortunately, when you break the selection process down into smaller segments, shopping for engagement rings becomes much less stressful â€¦ and much more enjoyable. The four primary aspects to look at include: Appearance, Budget, Quality and Practicality.

APPEARANCE: This aspect refers to the beauty of the ring itself; the stone, the setting, and the overall design. You can choose an existing style from a jewelerâ€™s catalogue or website or, in many cases nowadays, you have the freedom to create your own design for one-of-a kind engagement rings.

BUDGET: Because fine jewelry can be a sizeable investment, your budget for this purchase is a valid point of consideration. Itâ€™s important to remember that diamond engagement rings are offered in all budget ranges, and donâ€™t necessarily have to be centered round a sizeable solitaire. Determine your budget prior to beginning your search for engagement rings â€¦ this will help you narrow down the massive selection to only the designs you can afford.

QUALITY: Obviously you want a ring thatâ€™s good quality, but there are many factors of quality that are commonly overlooked. Diamond quality is one thing, but thereâ€™s also the ring itself, as well as the setting to consider. For example, a strong metal is required in order for engagement rings to last a lifetime, which is why you wonâ€™t find ring settings in 24k gold â€“ itâ€™s too soft. The number of prongs is important too, to keep the stone securely fastened to the ring.

PRACTICALITY: Equally important as any of the above aspects of ring selection is the practicality of the style you choose. As this is a piece of jewelry thatâ€™s intended for everyday use, itâ€™s important th you choose a setting that fits your belovedâ€™s lifestyle. For instance, a high setting can easily and frequently â€œcatchâ€• on things, making it a very impractical design for a very active woman. Itâ€™s als important to consider her personal sense of style, and choose a setting thatâ€™s in keeping with that.

With so many beautiful and unique engagement rings to choose from, taking the time to first identify your preferences within these four aspects will help you to efficiently narrow down the huge selection into a more manageable grouping; one that features rings that are beautiful, budget-friendly, of high quality and practical. This process will lead you to the ring thatâ€™s just right for both of you.
