Aviator Jackets were first created for pilots to keep them warm when they flew on daring adventures. The history of Aviator Jackets dates back to 1917 the year before the First World War ended and they were popular to wear by airman through the Second World War as well. You can see why the Aviator Jackets were popular with pilots they had snuggly warm sheepskin linings made with from same materials as high quality Sheepskin Rugs. The Aviator Jackets offered the pilots a modicum of comfort as they sat in cold, often cramped cockpits flying on daytime or nightly missions.

Today Aviator Jackets have become popular fashion garments and they are this seasonâ€™s must-have accessories - if you care about fashion donâ€™t leave home without a flying jacket.

How can you spot Aviator Jackets?

Thereâ€™s no way you can mistake Aviator with other types of outer garments. Aviator Jackets are normally brown in colour, have a distressed look and feature brass zip fastenings on the front. The Aviator Jackets come with genuine sheepskin linings, the same type of materials that Sheepskin Rugs are made from and they have large sheepskin lined collars as well. Sheepskin is also clearly seen on the cuffs and the hem of the Sheepskin Jackets and this gives them their authentic look.

They come in all size options and Aviator Jackets prove to be just as in-demand with ladies as they do men, donâ€™t you deserve this type of fashion garment this year?
