Joe Catford thought of providing convenience for golfers which he did by making the electric golf trolley in 1983. The trolley was designed to carry the things that a golfer needs for the game such as the balls, clubs, tees and others and this trolley need battery to operate. Before this machine was invented by Catford, a golfer has five options to play golf which are don't play a couple of round, carry the clubs through the entire game, pull the trolley which is manual operated, rent a golf cart or hire someone to bring all the golf clubs which is commonly called a caddy. But because of the smartness behind the invention of the electric golf trolley, golfers can now enjoy a convenient and stress free game.

An electric golf trolley offers a convenient and stress free way to play golf but there are other benefits too. The other advantages as follows.

> Stress and muscle pain free. The best advantage of owning a trolley is avoiding lifting a finger for those heavy golf bags that have to be taken around the entire golf course. If there are 18 holes as well as the golf bag has to be carried around the entire time, the golfer will be experiencing muscle ache and tired out even before they reach the 17th hole as the caddy may also need to attend to the other players.

> Consider the price. Having an electrical powered trolley will surely decrease one's unnecessary expenses from hiring a caddy or a golf cart. It is an investment that a golfer should take as he will take pleasure in it for the long term. Before buying any trolleys especially online, check and read different reviews and compare prices. One may be lucky enough to spot a good deal online and get freebies and other perks including free delivery charges.

> Someone quotes health is wealth. This is applicable to golfers too. The very reason why people play golf is for relaxation but that cannot happen with heavy golf bags that they need to carry around during the game. Far from being healthy, golfers do experience health conditions that affect their arms, legs and back. But with the help of electric powered trolleys, they may find a solution to the problem.

Golfers may have the convenience if they but electric trolleys. One needs not to buy new products or expensive ones. There are favored brands and models because of their affordability.
