Manali, at the north end of the Kullu Region in Himachal Pradesh, is a hill station located at a height of 2050 m (6398 ft) in the Himalayas. Situated on the Beas stream (Vyaas in Hindi) and near its source, it is a popular tourist spot for Indians in summer and a miraculous, snow-covered spot in winter. A enactment point for a number of treks (Beas Kund, Chandrakhani Pass) and sporting events such as white-water rafting, Manali is also on the highway to Ladakh via the region of Lahaul and Spiti as well as rohtang pass that can has become main destination near manali.Manali is about 550 km from Delhi, the capital of India, and generally there are buses attached the town|city with Delhi, Shimla, Dharamsala and Leh.

For bus service from Delhi to Manali, tickets and reservation can be made at the Inter State Bus Terminus, as well as at the Himachal Tourism office on Safdar Hashmi Marg near Mandi House in New Delhi. However, if you want to save time, the best way would be to book Delhi Manali tickets online and save the trouble of going anywhere personally.

The very approximate travel time period from Delhi to Manali is 14 hours; from Ambala to Manali is 10 hours; and from Kulu to Manali is 1.5 to 3 hrs. Volvo busesâ€”which leave at around|close to 5PM and reach at 09-10 AM subsequent dayâ€”are accessible from Delhi and are the most suitable selection in terms of comfort and value for hard earned cash to reach Manali but you need to book each of these in advance. Hotels like Snow Valley Resorts book your volvo along with their hotel package.

As there are no windows opening in the Volvo buses Passengers are advised to carry some vomit treatment options and avoid consuming just before/after boarding the bus.

We offer our services all throughout the year. So whatever is your requirement â€“ whether you want to book a bus for Manali for your family or wish to go on a an extended trip to Panipat, Kurukshetra, Ambala, Chandigarh, Palampur, Dharamshala, Hamirpur, Kangra, Kullu, Rohtang Pass or even Leh, give us a call and weâ€™ll find the right bus to cover all these cities for you.
