There is little doubt in Albufeiraâ€™s reputation as a tourist destination. So what makes Albufeira so popular among travelers? Surprising as it may sound yet Golf is often considered one of the cityâ€™s biggest attractions. It is at Albufeira that people get to taste the finest of Portuguese golf. The nine hole course at Balalia is perfect for testing direction skills and short game. Pine Cliffs is yet another course worth a visit. Funnily dubbed â€œDevilâ€™s Parlorâ€• by the locals, the place is sure to keep your packed with golf games.

Apart from golf in Albufeira you can explore the city for other surprises as well.

The Church of San Sebastio is undoubtedly one among them. The altar inside the church is graced by a magnificent piece of local artistry. The Moorish connection of Albufeira comes to life inside the castle. Families, on the other hand, can always consider visiting the Albufeira Water Park.

Once you have you are done with the game of golf in Albufeira, head straight to the golden beaches. In fact, you can spend a considerable part of the weekend break lousing about the sun kissed sand. Of all beaches in Albufeira, the Fishermanâ€™s Beach is probably the most crowded one. If you want to avoid the tourist crowd, then choose the West Beach that remains comparatively emptier. The Marina Beach, on the other hand, is another option just equally tantalizing as the two listed above.

However, if you would rather prefer an absolute solitude, make it a point to visit Carvoeiro Beach. The place not only offers silence but also comes draped in a wealth of natural beauty.

After a round of golf in Albufeira or a visit to the Albufeira water Park all you can crave for is food. In addition, to keep your systemâ€™s gourmet demands satisfied, the town is packed with a plethora of Restaurants and pubs. From mouthwatering local cuisines head for continental food- the eateries specialize in a variety of culinary extravaganzas.
