In the rapidly fast moving world of today, it has become a big challenge for the businessmen to market their products effectively in a result oriented way. With the ever increasing number of business competitors in the market, every businessman is facing a tough challenge to get their products and services introduced in the market and let their company stand out from the crowd. Many different methods are used by these businessmen in order to advertise their products and services. Some use electronic media for advertising, which is very costly and is affordable only by the high profile firms. Others use print media for advertising which is the most commonly used advertising method due to its cost efficiency and output.

The different advertising and marketing methods used via print media include advertisement through newspapers. The advertisement through newspapers is considered to be a highly efficient advertising method because your message will be sure to reach every person who purchases the newspaper. This type of advertising is also a bit costly. If you advertise with the newspapers via classifieds, it will be a cheap advertising method otherwise advertising with commercial adds would really require a high budget to be allocated for the purpose. Other methods of advertisement with print media are advertising in magazines, advertising with newsletters. The most commonly used advertising method is advertising with brochures, banners, flyers etc. This is a very economical and cost efficient method of advertising which also guarantees output.

The local printing companies used to print custom products like brochures, flyers, banners etc at very high prices but the concept of online printing has changed this trend of getting costly custom products printed. The online printing companies have introduced the most economical and highly affordable printing techniques. They have also successfully introduced many new advertising trends like advertising with booklets, door stickers, CD jackets, posters, calendars, invitational cards, office stationery, mouse pads, rolodex cards, table tents, etc. These newest methods of advertising have brought a revolutionary change in the printing methods and have changed the way advertising was done before.

Advertising with custom door stickers is now considered to be a very popular means of advertising due to its uniqueness and style. Businessmen print door stickers and hangers and get them pasted on public places like hotels, apartments, commercial buildings etc. The online printing companies have introduced the printing of cheap door hangers without compromising on their quality. They have brought into use the most advanced automatic printing equipment, which requires the minimum use of man power. This has resulted in cutting the printing costs and ultimately making it easy for the customers to print highly economical discount door hangers. The door hangers come in different types depending upon the purpose they have to be used for. There is bedroom door hanger, baby door hanger, donâ€™t disturb door hanger, etc. The most commonly printed and demanded type of door hanger is the bedroom door hanger.

The online printing companies like PrintingBlue, have also introduced the printing of all kinds of cheap customized stickers for the convenience of their customers around the world. PrintingBlue makes use of full color CMYK/PMS (Pantone Matching System) printing process in order to give the best to their customers.
