The capital city of Philippines, Manila is a highly urbanized and fast-developing city. It consists of many luxury hotels and modern shopping malls where the tourists of Manila flights can enjoy comfortable accommodation and many shopping options ranging from traditional items to branded products. But standing out in sharp contrast to these buildings are the parks and recreational areas where the travelers of flights to Manila can take a break from their busy urban life.

The Rizal Park situated in Manila is the most famous park of Philippines. Also called â€˜Lunetaâ€™ the park has been a favorite destination for picnics, socializing and relaxing. The park has been named after Philippinesâ€™ national hero Dr. JosÃ© Rizal. It contains his monument and many ornamental gardens, a chess plaza, a skating rink etc which further beautify the park, attracting many customers of cheap flights for Manila. The Rajah Sulayman Park is located in front of Malate church and is named after Rajah Sulayman, the last king of Manila. It consists of a beautiful fountain and monument of the king and is frequently visited by travelers of cheap flights to Manila.

The Manila Zoological and Botanical Garden spread across an area of 5.5-hectare boasts of being the oldest zoo in Asian subcontinent. The park is home to 800 animals belonging to 100 species and is filled with visitors of flights for Manila especially in weekends. Its Botanical Garden consists of plants belonging to the botanically rich Philippine Islands and South Pacific region. The Wildlife Rescue Center situated here takes care of abandoned wildlife species. The Mehan Garden earlier called the Jardin Botanico boasts of being Asia's first botanical garden. Established in 1858 the park consists of structures such as the Lawton Park n' Ride building and the Universidad de Manila, a public University. The flights from Manila provide many traveling options to the nature lovers and peace seekers from all over the world.

The MalacaÃ±ang Park is situated on the bank of the Pasig River across the official residence of the President of the Philippines. It consists of a recreation hall, a community assembly hall, a golf course and a rest house directly just opposite to the Palace. The buildings were constructed by the Bureau of Public Works under the supervision of the architects Juan Arellano and Antonio Toledo. It also consisted of a putting green, stables, and shell tennis courts. The Paco Park is a recreational garden which was earlier during the Spanish colonial rule a municipal cemetery.
