By submitting your articles to information hub, you grant us the right to publish your articles - We may publish your article anywhere on our website, blog, or syndicate through RSS. We may also change where it appears, including the category, at any time.

By submitting your articles to information hub, you grant others the right to publish your articles - Other information hub users have the right to publish your articles on their websites, in their newsletters or ezines, and more as long as the article is left in the original state. This includes the resource box which provides you credit as the author of the content.

No affiliate links! - The articles that you submit to informationhub should not contain affiliate links. It is acceptable, however, to mention the URLâ€™s of helpful sites or your own website which redirects to the recommended affiliate product.

Use the resource box for linking back to your site - Articles submitted will not be approved if they contain links in the body belonging to the author. Please use the resource box to link back to your site.

Please limit resource box links to 1 or fewer - Articles containing more than 3 links in the resource box will not be approved.

Submitting your articles to informationhub.co.uk does not entitle you to financial compensation of any kind - You will not receive compensation from informationhub.co.uk or the users of our directory for articles you submit.

Submitting an article in no ways guarantees inclusion in our directory - We reserve the right to reject an article submission for any reason.

Articles must be spellchecked and proof read for grammatical errors prior to submitting - Do not submit articles filled with spelling errors and bad grammar. We do monitor article submissions and we will reject content that doesnâ€™t meet this requirement.
