Bathroom towels are a necessity for every house. Their use can be observed in every corner of this world. Every bathroom will definitely feature a quality towel. This one item helps in drying the hands and body in a soft, subtle manner. With the help of a bath towel , there is no requirement for multiple scrubbing. Water absorption in a good amount is the indication of a good towel.

These days, there are different types of bathroom towels available in the market. However, not each of the available items is excellent in quality. Only a few available types are considered to be the best. The ones made from Egyptian cotton are considered to be the best and most popular in the bath towel category.

Egyptian cotton features long staples. As a result, the absorbent quality definitely increases. Longer the staples will be, better will become their absorbent quality. These cottons are sourced from far Egypt. These towels are extremely soft and plush, thanks to the long staples. These types of towels can be seen at luxury hotels and other high profile places.

Apart from Egyptian cotton, other materials that are used for manufacturing bath towels include pima cotton, synthetic, and organic cotton.

Pima towels also feature long staples. As a result, they also enjoy good absorbent facility. Pima cotton is exported from south western states of US. Pima towels are less expensive when compare Egyptian ones.

A lot of towels are manufactured using synthetic fabric. These towels may well have attractive appearance but are poorer in quality and liquid absorbency. They are cheapest in price. And then there are those bath towels made from organic cotton. These may not have that luxuriousness like Egyptian towels, but are considered safest for user health.

All these towel variants are available widely in stores these days. Purchase the ones according to liking and budget affordability.
