The phone packages that you could include with your broadband deals are free evening and weekend calls, free anytime calls to all UK landlines should you chose to add these as an extra.

Many of the broadband providers offer broadband with speeds that are up to a certain amount, therefore the rate you will receive could be lower than the speed advertised, and this is due to circumstances that the provider can not control such as the peak time connection and even the model of the computer you are using. With BT Broadband they strive to get you the fastest connection possible with the package that you have selected.

They have created a range of packages that suits everyoneâ€™s needs, from people who use the internet on occasion to people who regularly use the internet and download a lot of data. With BT they always offer a selection of extras and little perks with each package so the best option to so see what is available and see which extras suit your needs the most, then you can decide in which package to go for. With their basic package gives you broadband with up to 20Mb of download speeds with a 10GB monthly allowance as well as free evening and weekend calls with their BT phone line.

The largest package that BT Broadband offer is the unlimited package giving customers a 40Mb download speeds and an unlimited monthly allowance, meaning you can download as much data as you like per month, perfect for the people whop are always connected to the internet. Included in this great deal are free anytime calls so you can call landline numbers as well as 0845 and 0870 numbers anytime during the day.

BT have now brought out the latest in fibre optic broadband technology named the BT infinity, where you can benefit from download speeds of up to 40Mb along with great extras. They have two package options with the BT infinity which customer claim they experience faster download speeds that the regular BT broadband. The first package is the 40Mb download speeds with a 40GB monthly allowance and you can add a call packed to this should you need to. The second option is an unlimited package so you will receive the super fats 40Mb download speeds but have an unlimited data allowance per month, meaning you can download data to your hearts content without worrying about going over your monthly allowance.

So if you are looking for a better internet provider with a faster internet connection, then BT could have the perfect package for you that wonâ€™t cost you more than you are willing to pay.
